

About Australian Book Review and ABR Online

Australian Book Review is one of Australia's leading cultural magazines. It publishes essays, reviews, arts commentary, creative writing, surveys, and interviews.

ABR has an extensive range of programs and offers three annual international prizes: the ABR Elizabeth Jolley Short Story Prize, the Peter Porter Poetry Prize, and the Calibre Prize for an Outstanding Essay. Through the Calibre Prize and its Fellowship program, ABR publishes some of the finest long-form journalism in the country. Among its many contributors are some of the country's pre-eminent writers, scholars, and commentators.

ABR Online, the digital version of our magazine, is available to public libraries, governmental institutions, and universities around the world. It is an invaluable resource for librarians, library-users, staff, and students, and offers access to new issues of the magazine as well as to our growing digital archive. Most major universities now subscribe to ABR Online, which is no longer available via Informit.
